COLLEGE HISTORY

“The College is the people of the community” - this was the fundamental principle Honorable Gordon MacMurchy stressed when addressing the initial charter Board members of South East Region Community College. Each and every board member addressed that challenge with a dedicated purpose, a sense of creative planning and a cooperative approach.

It was in this spirit of cooperation and community development that the College was built. Decisions about the programs/courses to run were made by people in the community, using existing facilities. The College became the community; cooperating and working together to bring programs to the community. It provided the opportunity for a lot of people to develop their self-esteem and hidden potential.

A very dedicated College staff worked closely with communities to establish the backbone of the college system - the volunteer contact committees. A tremendous amount of credit goes to the staff and volunteers. By 1978, this volunteer network existed in many southeast communities.

While the initial startup was slow, a firm foundation was laid through the cooperative efforts and support of the Board, College staff, contact committees, communities, school boards, the business community, the Department of Continuing Education, the Department of Agriculture, University of Regina Extension Division, the Technical Institutes and other groups in the community.

Our College has a proud history of adaptation and responsiveness to the people and communities of southeast Saskatchewan. During the first 40 years, the commitment to the founding principles of “community based” technological, trading and global trends have revolutionized the way we live, work, play and learn. These trends are leading to the global village (community), continuous education and training throughout our lives, the expectation of several careers, the learning organization and the learning community, the global information network and resource center, the electronic worldwide classroom, rural reorganization, new larger rural communities.

What is the role of the College in building the communities of tomorrow? This is the challenge for all members of the Southeast College community. In true pioneer spirit, the founders created the South East Community College from a vision based one belief in people and communities. The College is confident that this spirit is still alive and thriving in rural Saskatchewan. It will ensure that the College continues to meet the emerging needs of the people and communities in Southeast Saskatchewan in the 21st Century.

Repeated abuse may result in the student being removed from the program. All cell phones are to be turned off (including text messages) during class.

Social Media Guidelines

Social media has become a mainstream form of online communication and College employees and students will use these online tools for personal and professional communications. Southeast College has ZERO TOLERANCE ON VIOLENCE AND HARASSMENT. These offences may result in immediate discontinuation from the program.

Academic Misconduct

It is recognized that attending a program at Southeast College brings with it many challenges for learners, such as attending class, completing assignments, and writing exams. It is also recognized that these, along with other issues of being a learner bring various challenges to the learning and development process. To this point, an issue those learners must be aware of, practice and adhere to is that of Academic Misconduct.

The Academic Misconduct element in a learning environment is essential for a course, a program and the College to maintain its academic integrity. The College and its staff will share the responsibility for learners understanding and practicing academic honesty, but it is important for learners to understand that failure to comply with the guidelines and expectation associated with Academic Misconduct can result in consequences ranging from a reprimand, assignment failure, course failure or program expulsion.

It is understood that it can be difficult for learners to, at times be aware of what might or can constitute an Academic Misconduct violation. To assist in this understanding, there are few examples of activities that would constitute a violation of Academic Misconduct listed below. Learners should always check with their instructor if in doubt.

- Cheating – this can take the form of using material not authorized for writing an exam (cheat notes), pretending to be someone else to write an exam, gaining access to information about an exam or assignment without approval.
- Plagiarism – this includes but is not limited to using someone else’s work as their own, whether it be an assignment, lab work or project. This will also mean not providing proper notation or reference for information on works used in an assignment.
